Göttingen welcomes the Euro-Par 2019

For many years Euro-Par has been established as one of the most important High Performance Computing Conferences.

Euro-Par is the prime European conference covering all aspects of parallel and distributed processing, ranging from theory to practice, from small to the largest parallel and distributed systems and infrastructures, from fundamental computational problems to full-fledged applications, from architecture, compiler, language and interface design and implementation, to tools, support infrastructures, and application performance aspects. Euro-Par's unique organization into topics provides an excellent forum for focused technical discussion, as well as interaction with a large, broad and diverse audience.

On the occasion of the 25th Anniversary of Euro-Par, Springer grants all conference participants free access rights to SpringerLink European Conference on Parallel Processing - All Proceeding Titles for a period of four weeks.

GÖTTINGEN IS DIFFERENT

In Göttingen science and academic education play a fundamental role. With a little luck you will be privileged to experience some strange traditions. The picture shows the most kissed girl in the world, the Gänselesel, which could be translated Goose Lilly, one of Göttingen's most popular sights. It is common practice for every new doctor to give flowers to this eternally young lady and then kiss her. The Gänselesel is standing in the middle of a water-filled fountain on the historic Göttingen market square. To kiss her, the candidate has to climb over the slippery water basin. For a long time this practice was forbidden, but no one followed it. This restriction was valid until 2011.

This sign reminds of the founding days of the university in the early 18th century. But the figure is not older than 100 years. Because the students should concentrate on their studies, a small town in the south of the Kingdom of Hanover was chosen as the location for a new innovative university, Göttingen. A small sleepy town which until then was only known for its delicious sausages and Christmas geese. It was a typical scene at this time. Maids sold geese on the market square or drove them to water in the morning.

Germany as we know it today did not exist back then. The Kingdom of Hanover was co-governed by the King of England. George II. August was king at that time. The Georgia Augusta University was given his name.
